Park Manager's Report

Hi all;

Fall at the park has officially arrived. Due to the inclement weather at seasonal shut down we were unable to finish some painting and staining projects that we had planned, so we will try to nip those in the bud early next spring, weather permitting. We did manage to fell some dead trees that were a concern in the marina and campground areas before the maintenance staff retired for the season. Speaking of the maintenance staff we would like to thank them for constructing the nice resting gazebo on the side of the park entrance road. We are sure many park patrons will take advantage of this spot to stop and relax for a moment, while they enjoy their walks etc. Winter preparations have been completed and the main dock will be removed shortly. I remind you that all cabin holders must remove their boat lifts and docks from the water prior to the October 31st deadline. Sask Power have replaced the burnt out street lights in the park and your Park Board have approved the purchase of additional security cameras and lights which will be installed in addition to the existing security equipment. We remind you to secure your own property for the off season and please read the "Cottage Safety" document provided by the RCMP, under the "Bylaws" section of our website. Take care and enjoy your park. Ken Peterson General Manager (306)873-2500. kippark@sasktel.net

Ducks Unlimited Canda

How did Canadian musician David Archibald spend his summer vacation? He did a musical tour of 31 Ontario provincial parks (and worked in an eight-day voyager canoe trip for R and R).

His campground concerts were aimed at kids and families and celebrated the history of the parks. But, with his often playful songs, he also educated his audience about the ecology and fragile nature of the habitats within park boundaries.

Ducks Unlimited Canada does its own educational outreach through our Wetlands Centres of Excellence and Wetland Heroes programs. But this episode, we're focussing on Archibald's education through music.

Archibald has been interpreting natural spaces with his music for 29 years when Bon Echo Provincial Park hired him to celebrate the petroglyph-famous campground in song. He has written for and performed on Sesame Street in New York and CBC's Mr. Dressup. But he's also a music producer (he gave Avril Lavigne her first shot at a studio microphone) and is currently the musical director for a show about Stompin' Tom Connors. Follow the link below to listen to this month's podcast from Ducks Unlimited Canada and David Archibald. Signing Natures Praises.
